THE founding, eight years ago, of the West Philadelphia Catholic Girls' High School is a tribute to the zeal and foresight of those entrusted with the administration of Catholic education. So large had become the enrollment at the John W. Hallahan Catholic Girls' High School that another school of equally high scholastic standing was felt to be needed. And West Catholic came into being.

West Catholic is not an old school. How, then, account for our wealth of tradition? For this we are indebted, in part, to our sister school, but to that inheritance has been added the personal touch which makes it West Catholic's own. Each year has been responsible for some delightful addition to custom that has become a tradition.

Thus, in brief glimpses, the year unfolds itself: An olden, golden custom which integrates the whole year is the weekly Mass, when the Divine Guest comes to our altar. Early in the term we have the inspiring ceremony in which the Student Government Officers are inaugurated. Next comes Freshman Day, when the "little Greenies" are initiated, to the joy of their "big sisters," the Seniors. The Yuletide is fittingly commemorated in a dramatization of Bethlehem's holy story. In February the Seniors present their play. Later as a culmination of "Junior Week" comes the Junior play. Athletically, there are swimming meets and thrilling basketball games. Late April or early May brings the Music Festival, when Orchestra and Glee Club capture us in a web of magic melody. And throughout the year there are lectures, marionettes, Shakespearean readings, and other diversions for the weekly assembly.

Class Day, the last formal gathering of the Seniors, is the students' farewell and West Catholic's most delightful custom. There is no brusqueness, no hurry in the leave-takings. "Good-byes" are long, fervent, a bit sad, but robbed of finality by the promise of meetings on Alumnae Days. Thus from Freshman Day to Graduation Day, West Catholic's students hold communion with those spirits that inspire to greatness, that give to the mind strength and intrepidity, to the soul splendor and glory.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

IT IS the Sisters of St. Joseph of Chestnut Hill in charge of the English Department who bring to West Catholic students this wonder of words. On the practical side these Sisters give training in spoken and written composition, which tends to develop in the student the power to use the mother tongue clearly and forcefully in those everyday contacts when she is continually being judged by the English she speaks or writes.

But the English Department has another equally important function—to acquaint the student with the glory of those perfect combinations of words which we term literature. The four-year course unrolls the scroll from Chaucer to Masfield giving to the students "magic casements opening wide to fairy lands forlorn." Thus West Catholic students are trained not only for efficient work but also for joyous leisure.

MARY LOVETT, '35.

UNDER the supervision of the Sisters of St. Joseph come many and varied student activities extending from Freshman Day to Graduation. Among the most important of these are the four annual retreats,—two days spent in prayer, recollection, and conferences supervised by carefully-chosen retreat masters.

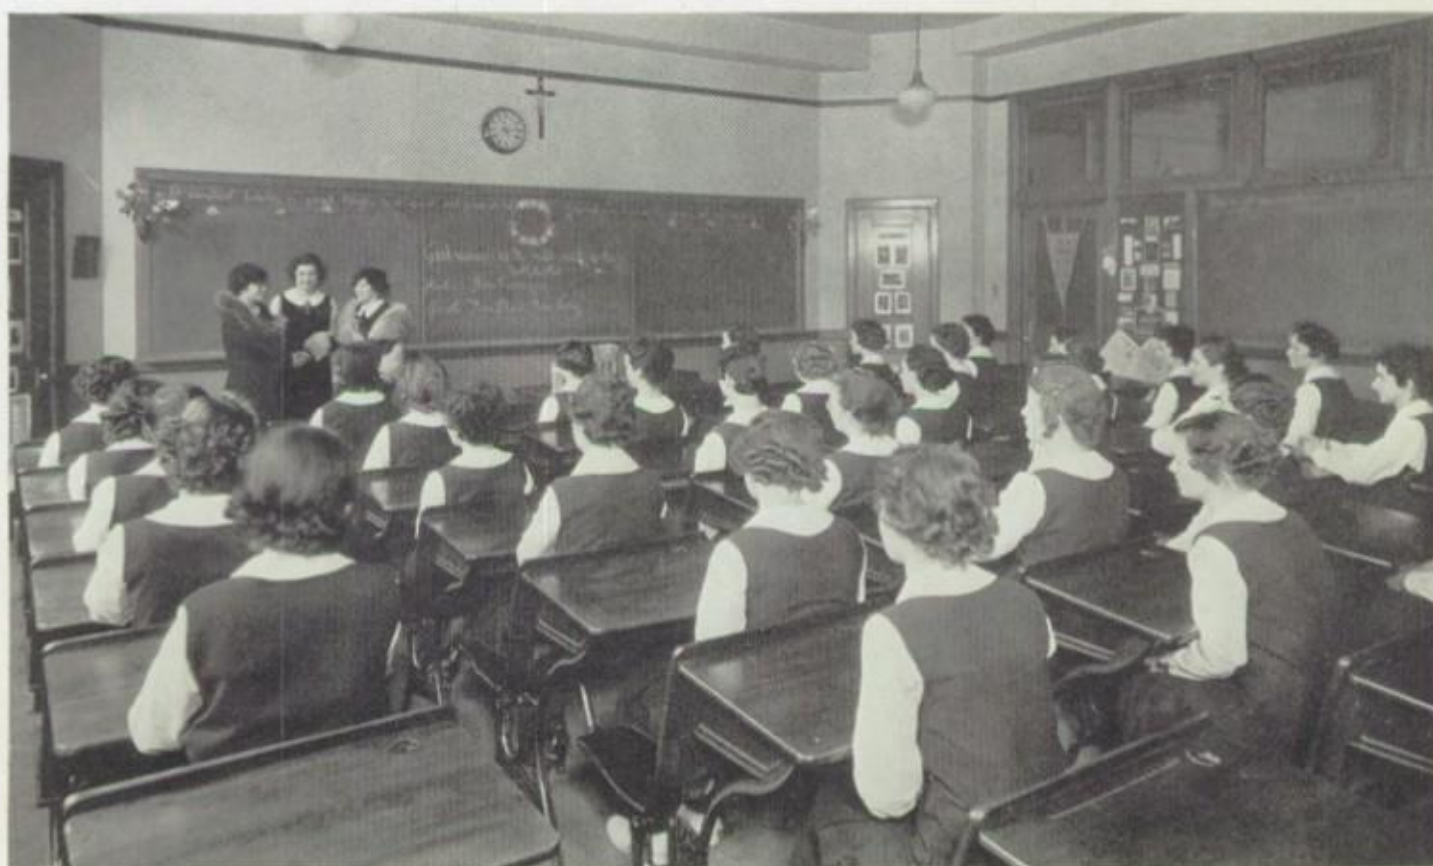

Again the Sisters see to it that the day-after-day monotony of the school year is broken here and there by lectures on subjects entertaining and cultural. The "lollipop-delights" of Freshman Day and the excitement of Junior Week come in for their share of attention. The Christmas Play, the Senior Play, and the Junior Play are all the results of their capable organization. In November comes the Annual Card Party and Promenade, involving many details. Class Day, with its cherished favors, and the Senior trip are memorable occasions because of their thoughtful planning. Graduation exercises in Convention Hall, the culminating point of the year, are, in themselves, an undertaking requiring long weeks of unremitting preparation and administrative skill.

PUBLICATIONS

NO twentieth-century high school is complete without essays into the publishing field and these endeavors fall quite naturally under the direction of the English Department. West Catholic sponsors the Reaper and the GLEAM.

The former, a newspaper, is a monthly publication through which a student staff of editors, trained in the news-writing classes, keeps West Catholic's little world apace with the events of the hour. In this field a student may develop her talents as an editorial writer, a chatty columnist, a star reporter, or a cartoonist.

The GLEAM, a literary magazine, is published semi-annually. The mid-year number, consisting of stories, essays, poems, and feature articles, is an incentive to the latent literary ability of the student body. The graduation edition, with its pictures of students and numerous activities, is a memory book for future years. Ever alive to new currents of thought, while holding fast the best of the past, the Sisters of St. Joseph chart the course of our publications.

THE GLEAM 1935

MUSIC in West Catholic is taught and supervised by three Sisters of St. Joseph, whose work is grouped under two general classifications: Curricular and extra-curricular. For Sophomores, the former entails two periods a week of theory of music; for Seniors and Freshmen, assembly singing. The Senior Class is rostered as a unit for choral. Because of their numbers, the Freshmen presented some difficulties in the early part of the year, but each "problem child" is now met twice a week at a study period assigned especially for music. The extra-curricular work embraces the Glee Club, Orchestra, and Band, the members of which receive individual and group instructions from the most competent professional teachers.

The direction of the dramatic activities is delegated to Miss Margaret Mary Kearney, who as a coach has carried through nearly all ventures in this field during the school's short history. In addition to this, Miss Kearney conducts a Public Speaking Class where the students pursue the charm that lies in a cultured voice.

Thus in classroom teaching of English and music and in multifarious student activities, the Sisters of Saint Joseph serve West Catholic.

WHEN West Catholic opened its portals in 1927, its faculty included two Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, whose Mother House in Belgium was founded by Blessed Julie Billiart. Since September, 1930, the French Department has been under the direction of the Sisters of Notre Dame, whose faculty now numbers seven. This department formerly offered French courses only in the upper classes; however, four years ago le francais became a Freshman elective. To supplement the work of the classroom, the Sisters conduct a Cercle Francais, which provides opportunity for the older students to use in conversation their knowledge of the language. A special feature of this club is the annual French play, this year "Cœur de Mère."

In addition to this, the Sisters of Notre Dame are in charge of the Mission Group division of Catholic Action. Themselves fired with zeal to spread the Kingdom of Christ, they have communicated the fire to the student body, forming a very active missionary unit.

A PLACE "full of sweet dreams and quiet breathing" is the Library under the direction of the Sisters of Notre Dame. Books of all types, from the staid tomes of science and economics to the exhilarating volumes of travel and adventure, fill the well-stocked shelves of the Library. History, religion, art,—each has its own particular corner. The best current magazines, pamphlets, and literature of every description may be had for the asking. The Library boasts also an extensive reference collection, numerous sets of encyclopediæ and rapidly growing back-number files.

Dependent at first on an occasional Book Drive and individual generosity, the Library, since 1930, has been maintained by a special student fund. Miss Helen L. Lowrey, the librarian, a graduate of this school and a certified librarian, is always more than willing to procure for the members of the faculty or student body any desired book—whether it be the required reading or the latest in modern fiction.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

THE instruction of the "future Einsteins" at West Catholic is under the supervision of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, who teach mathematics. Their efforts are not confined, however, to the field embraced by the time-honored Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry, but include also the management of the more recently established Business Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, and Social Geography departments.

First year students are initiated into the mysteries of "x" and "y," while the sophomores pore over the theorems of Euclid. For students contemplating a college career, intermediate Algebra and Trigonometry are taught in the third and fourth years as electives.

Preparation for the ultimate destination of the majority of students—the business world—is made through the study of Bookkeeping and Business Arithmetic, electives during the last three years. For anyone desiring knowledge of present as well as past economic problems, there is Social Geography.

Thus this department of the school through the able efforts of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, offers both scientific and practical courses.

MARY E. T. MCGOWAN, '35.

ALL matters pertaining to studies are under the direction of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. These include the regulations concerning school rosters, pupils' rosters, pupils' reports, and the reports sent at stated times to the standardizing agencies with which West Catholic is affiliated.

Rostering is the most important duty of this department. Besides class rosters, others are made out for the pupils. Each student is considered as an individual; hence great care is taken to select subjects which will prove most useful in whatever field she purposes to enter after she leaves high school.

When one considers the enrollment in the school, it does not require great discernment to realize the magnitude of this task. This year Miss Mary Avil, B.S., has served as an able assistant in the Roster Room and an efficient substitute teacher.

So necessary is the work of this department to the scholastic standing of the school, that its importance cannot be exaggerated, and the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, cannot be fittingly complimented for the efficiency with which they accomplish their very important and exacting charge.

CLOTHING DEPARTMENT

FAME has been brought to our Alma Mater through its proficient couturières under the able direction of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. The Ledger Contest was a popular subject for weeks, and in the end, as was to be expected, West Catholic walked off with the laurels!

Glowing with happiness over their first feat, the girls continued their brilliant work. The Doll Contest was a lovely affair. Then the exhibition! Slips, the first efforts of the inexperienced; dresses—sport frocks, simple affairs for street wear, a few evening gowns—made the display one of beauty.

There is happiness ahead for the student who has become learned in the art of sewing. She is competent, economical, and intelligent in regard to her dressmaking. She will “walk in beauty” because her clothing will inevitably bear the stamp of individuality.

Success to these girls whose gallant efforts have been rewarded so splendidly and divine recompense to the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, whose guidance they follow!

FOODS DEPARTMENT

THE Foods Department, under the supervision of the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, is a well-developed feature of West Catholic's curriculum. A long, white, well-kept room, fully equipped with everything necessary for the development of the culinary art, provides a suitable background for the endeavors of West Catholic's youthful dietitians. But baking, frying, broiling, and candy-making comprise only half of the activities of the students of Home Economics. The study of balanced diets, the relative value of carbohydrates, proteins, fats, and vitamins, is an attempt to inculcate in the student a keener understanding of the scientific relations of foods. Planning the menu for a luncheon and playing hostess provide variety.

This involves another phase of Home Economics, one unconsciously associated with cookery—table service—the study of which is facilitated by the large, completely furnished living and dining rooms, which adjoin the cooking department.

THE LATIN DEPARTMENT

IN West Catholic, the Sisters of Mercy and Latin are almost synonyms, for it is they who open to the students the doors of classical learning. In the first year, the fundamentals of Latin grammar are drilled; at the same time, a large proportion of the vocabulary is acquired. Cæsar's "Commentaries" on the Gallic Wars is assigned to second year pupils for reading. The third year brings Cicero, Rome's finest prose writer. Then the culmination of three years' study is attained when the students reach the Vergil Classic. By their extensive preparation, they are equipped to appreciate fully the wonderful poetry of this benevolent enchanter of mediæval legends.

To supplement the regular Latin schedule, the Sisters of Mercy organized a Latin Club this year for the purpose of weaving a stronger classical background in the girls' minds and re-initiating them into the mysteries of mythology. However, music, the constellations, and dramatics have not been neglected. The club has presented many interesting plays, including "Pyramus and Thisbe," "The Judgment of Paris," "A Roman Christmas," and "Latin Grammar." Eager to learn, the enthusiastic members adopted this slogan, "Crescat Scientia."

ELSIE J. GALLAGHER, '35.

THE Sisters of Mercy do not, however, confine their activities solely to the teaching of Latin. In their hands also is the Guidance Program for the entire student body. The purpose of this work is to adjust the student to her social environment by training in self-control, courtesy, and cooperation. It also presents to the student the various vocational fields, striving to enable each girl to understand her capabilities and shortcomings and to avoid the placing of "round pegs in square holes." During the past year this work was exemplified in two plays, "In Life's Gift Shop" and "High Ways." At the head of this work is a Sister known as Student-Counsellor, who is always accessible to a student in any difficulty and who strives by individual attention to prevent mal-adjustments to the school environment.

In addition to this, the Sisters of Mercy are in charge of the Apostolic Unit of Catholic Action, and have the general direction of all Catholic Action activity in the school.

THE HISTORY DEPARTMENT

IN THE History Department, conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Child Jesus, students are given an understanding of present-day problems in the light of the past. They are taught to look upon history not as a mere narration of facts but as a reality in which men and women have played a part, and by their intellect and achievements have helped to shape out present-day civilization.

To stimulate self-activity and independent thinking on the part of the student, floor talks, debates, controversial topics, and other class-room activities are introduced. In this way opportunity is given for self-expression, and the student is directed in the proper evaluation of material and the formation of well-balanced judgments.

Originality in visualizing significant events by means of cartoons, charts, and graphs is encouraged, while every effort is made by the Sisters of the Holy Child Jesus to impress the student with a sense of her own responsibility in helping to make the History of the future.

MARY LOVETT, '35.

WEST CATHOLIC'S pride in her Art Department supervised by Sisters of the Holy Child Jesus is more than justified. The colorful posters, friezes, and paintings that publicize West Catholic's activities, to say nothing of the "funnies," cartoons, and etchings in the Reaper and GLEAM, are all the result of the Art Department's "divine unrest."

Besides the study of form-and-color and of technique, many of the art periods are devoted to the study and class discussion of the lives of classic and modern painters. The critical dissection of masterpieces, of contemporary paintings, that is conducted in the class periods, inculcates in the art student a knowledge and love of the beautiful, a critical discernment, an appreciation of the best in art, while at the same time it trains her in creative expression.

Last but not least, the Sisters of the Holy Child Jesus manage skilfully the school stationery shop whose clever window displays are an ever-present urge to the shopping instinct.

THE SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

THE world of the twentieth century is science-minded, hence the Science Department, taught by the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis, Philadelphia Foundation, occupies an important place in West Catholic's educational scheme. Biology is a required subject on the Sophomore roster, while chemistry is a popular elective in the Junior and Senior years.

Biology unfolds the romance of animal and plant life. In chemistry, familiar matter takes on a new guise, and the imagination is aroused by combining elements and observing the reaction. The importance of science in our day cannot be over-estimated, and the Sisters of St. Francis have carried over to this field the expert teaching technique acquired by years of experience at Hallahan in these subjects.

To these Sisters also is entrusted the privilege of the sacristan. With shining gold and colorful flowers, they prepare the throne for the coming of the Author of All Science.

THE aim of Hygiene, as someone has so aptly said, is "to improve the quality of life." Quite naturally then, this subject, taught by the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis, Philadelphia Foundation, finds a place in the education of the West Catholic student. The first objective of this course is to promote good health in the individual; another important outcome is a very desirable and necessary civic spirit. The interdependence of community health and personal health is constantly emphasized, for on the youth of today rests the responsibility for the community of tomorrow.

Practical hygiene at West Catholic is under the direction of Miss Julia O'Halloran, a graduate nurse, who presides most efficiently over a completely equipped infirmary. Through the daily visits of Dr. Emilie Burke and Miss O'Halloran's constant care, the health of the student body is wisely safe-guarded.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

SEVEN years ago the Sisters of Christian Charity launched upon their teaching career at West Catholic. At first the Community was represented by two Sisters, who assisted in the mathematics department and conducted several classes in music.

It was not until 1932 that these Sisters were placed in charge of the commercial department, one of the largest and most important divisions of the entire school. The commercial student's roster almost invariably includes, along with stenography and typing, the elective business subjects and secretarial studies. Dictaphones, ediphones, bookkeeping machines, calculators—operated both by hand and by electricity—comptometers, adding machines, and duplicators of various kinds; in fact every time and labor-saving device known in the modern business office, are at the disposal of the students in the secretarial group. In addition to this the commercial equipment includes one hundred and sixty standard typewriters, where the students acquire speed and accuracy. Through the arduous efforts of the Sisters of Christian Charity, the West Catholic commercial course well prepares students to meet the demands of the modern business world.

BEATRICE KRONES, '35.

DISCIPLINE at West Catholic, which originates in the student body itself, is also under the direction of the Sisters of Christian Charity. The Student Government Association consists of an executive group composed of a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and four Student Counsellors, one from each class. Each section keeps in touch with the central association through its representative elected by the students of her group.

Offenders against school law and order are tried and sentenced by a jury of their peers—a student court of judges and jurors who hear evidence and pass sentence. Members of this organization are elected by the students for their qualities of leadership, honor, integrity, courtesy, and self-control. Student Government in West Catholic, though, is not a government of other students but a government of every student for the good of all.

WEST CATHOLIC, following the ancient advice concerning "a sane mind in a sound body," requires physical training on every student's roster. This department is efficiently administered through the combined efforts of Miss Louise La Sala, Miss Flora De Laurentes, and Miss Genevieve Rowley. The Freshmen are initiated into the mysteries of folk and aesthetic dancing. The combined Sophomore and Junior Classes specialize in advanced expressionistic dancing and apparatus work—horses, rings, and ropes. Club-swinging, more apparatus work, and very advanced rhythmic expression comprise the Seniors' schedule. In addition to their class work these teachers ably supervise all extra-curricular athletics, such as swimming and horse-back riding, with the exception of basketball which is under the capable direction of Miss Sue Dougherty.

“An ending and a beginning”

CLASS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"When they now shoot forth their fruit, you know that summer is nigh"

THERE comes a day when the bud must become a flower, when the seed must bear fruit. So, too, in the life of every West Catholic Senior there comes Graduation Day, marking an ending, and initiating a beginning in the life of every girl. As she looks into the past, that day signifies an ending, a conclusion of all those knight-errandries that find for their background high school life; in relation to the future, it signifies a beginning, an opening of a world that never ceases to need youth, needs you and me and our myriads of sister graduates.

That the world is in the throes of an economic depression, that industry has slackened, that skies are smokeless, should not dispirit youth. New ideals, new hopes, new aspirations clamor for expression in living. New lamps must shine where feeble candles failed to burn. Yet, whether our adventures, yours and mine, be on the peaks of Darien or in the valleys of strife, there will shine faith, the gleam from West Catholic's Torch of Truth, her children's heritage.

THE OLD FAMILIAR FACES

I have had teachers, I have had friends

In my days at West Catholic, in my happy school days;
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have been laughing, I have been singing,

Studying late, reading late, with my friendly books;
All, all are gone, the old familiar duties.

Some friends have died, and some teachers have left me,

And some joys are taken from me; yet all in departing

CHARLOTTE SCHWARTZ, '35.

Our Leisure Hours

M U S I C

ONCE again West Catholic marches ahead! This time to the lively tunes of the Band, our latest activity! This recent addition to the Music Department was organized principally to accompany the basketball team, and the first appearance of this year's squad marked also the debut of the band. As they entered the "Gym," resplendent in their blue and gold uniforms, they were greeted with thunderous applause, which has not lessened at subsequent appearances.

Despite the fact that the band is tremendously popular in the school, it can never approximate in importance the Orchestra or Glee Club. Throughout the year the Orchestra lends its enchanting music to the perfecting of such momentous occasions as Freshman Day, the Christmas Play, the Junior Play, and the very important Senior Play. However, it is at the Spring Music Festival that the Orchestra comes into its own. Here, the consistent and diligent rehearsals, under the direction of Mr. Benjamin d' Amelio, have their fruition in a performance of professional finish for an appreciative audience. Finally, it is the melodic strains of the Orchestra which complete the graduation exercises.

Equally at home in the lilting peasant melody, the magnificent depth of Gregorian chant, or the delicate nuances of a Latin hymn sung "a capello," the Glee Club has won well-deserved laurels on many occasions. They share radio programs with the Orchestra and form a colorful and important part of the Spring Festival. During the past year the efforts of the Orchestra and the Glee Club contributed much to the success of the Mexican Protest Rally held in Convention Hall on February twenty-fourth.

AN EMBARRASSING DISCOVERY

"COLONIAL CHARM"

JANICE MEREDITH

AS THE curtain closed on the last act of the Senior play, Janice Meredith, a burst of applause filled the auditorium, which held a record gathering even for West Catholic. But backstage a growing sense of loss was filling the hearts of those seniors who had taken part in the production, for Janice had become the breath of their very existence and they were loath to leave Colonial charm for this mundane twentieth century. Janice Meredith, adapted from the story by Paul Leicester Ford, was produced under the competent direction of our able dramatic coach, Miss Margaret Mary Kearney.

The story opens on the eve of the Revolutionary War and moves swiftly forward to the climax—Washington's crossing of the Delaware—concluding with the surrender of Cornwallis. Throughout the play runs the love story of Janice Meredith and Colonel John Brereton, former bond-servant of Squire Meredith. In the end Janice follows the example of Cornwallis and surrenders—to the man she loves.

Mary Lovett as capricious, lovable Janice captured the hearts of her audience as completely as she captivated the British red-coats. Mary Flavin, as the dashing hero, Colonel Brereton, alias "Charles," made romantic hearts beat faster; Suzanne Campbell as the swashbuckling Colonel Rahl, delivering English gallantries with a German accent, was an immediate success. Lord Clowes, the villain, played by Jean Chidsey, was sufficiently realistic to merit the intense dislike of the spectators. But why enumerate when the entire cast united in presenting a performance of professional ease and finesse.

For actors and audience Janice Meredith will live long, a cherished memory.

TENSE MOMENTS

THE GLEAM

AN OUTSTANDING student enterprise of West Catholic is the GLEAM, published twice each year. The mid-year issue is a literary number, holding fast-caught our most pretentious strivings. Here every girl possessed of literary ability finds a home for her brain children. The June publication is the Senior's own book, a record of the "golden dreams of youthful years." Inscribed here is the history of the activities, the friendships, the guidance which have moulded a West Catholic graduate.

We are young, but we have a past. In 1928 the first GLEAM appeared, lighting its torch at the traditions of the mother school. This substantial volume might be termed our "baby book" since it gives an account of all West Catholic's "firsts." In 1931 we grew ambitious and inaugurated the present system of publishing two issues a year. Recognition and journalistic honors have increased our natural pride in the "annual." To these past achievements the class of 1935 adds two numbers, worthy, we believe, to rank with their predecessors.

THE REAPER

IN OCTOBER 1933 the Reaper became an experiment. Before this time the literary magazine, THE GLEAM, was the only journalistic activity in the school. The popular appeal which the Reaper quickly made to the student body prompted the formation of a news-writing class in which a staff is trained for work in this field and for appreciation of news values.

In order to justify itself educationally, this course gives a training that will be of value to the student who has no thought of entering the journalistic profession and no special interest in its technique. It teaches young people to read the newspaper intelligently, to discriminate in selecting periodicals, to support the better type of journalism, and to get the greatest benefit out of their newspaper reading. For those who are thinking of the writing profession as a career, it provides a try-out and perhaps the first steps.

THERE are some girls who like athletics but who feel they can do "gym" work better than basketball, track, or swimming. The Leaders' Club is ideal for such lassies. This club was formed to train the students in "gym" work so that they might aid the teachers with the large classes. At the beginning of this term the club adopted a new feature. Besides receiving stripes and a letter "L" to wear on her gym suit, each girl was presented with a "Leaders' Club" pin, which she forfeits should she fail to fulfill her duties.

The Leader is a model of neatness, courtesy, and diligence. Taking roll call and assisting the teachers with assigned groups are her chief duties. The work is difficult, but the students selected for the distinction appreciate the opportunity given them for leadership.

The most important event in the life of a Leader is the overnight "hike" which takes place every spring. Eagerly anticipated by every member, it is a perfect climax to the activities of the club, and a reward of merit for their cooperation with the teachers in charge of physical training.

RIDING CLUB

RANKING among the favorite associations of the school is the Riding Club, which meets on Wednesday afternoons at the Philadelphia Riding Academy. The amateur equestriennes took their first lessons in the indoor ring but later, with the advanced group, they skilfully guided their mounts along the picturesque bridle paths of Fairmount Park. In the spring the club held its first exhibition, which was modeled on the modern horse show, thereby drawing the eyes of all West Catholic to this "ever ancient, ever new" activity.

SWIMMING CLUB

ON WEDNESDAY afternoon after a difficult day at school, it is a wonderful sensation to dive into the cool waters of the Garden Court Natatorium—the privilege of any member of West Catholic's Swimming Club. Through the teaching of competent instructors, the girls in the club are taught the fine points of swimming and diving.

This activity presents an excellent opportunity for the timid soul to overcome her fear of the bounding billows; and for the young lady, who boasts only the ability to keep her fair head above water, to acquire a finished technique.

THE "VICTORS VALIANT"

T H R O U G H T H E S E A S O N S

SINCE its opening in 1927, West Catholic has fostered sports along with its other activities. The intriguing and interesting game of basketball has ever been West Catholic's major sport.

Our school has always had representative teams, but the first team of '28 established an enviable record, placing West Catholic, though yet in its infancy, at the "top of the ladder." The Varsity of '29 carried on with a victorious season which again placed West Catholic at the top. During the years '30 to '33 West Catholic proved that she could graciously accept the defeats that frequently follow success.

When Miss Sue Dougherty, of '28 fame, returned as coach, the West Catholic Varsity again forged ahead. Miss Dougherty's presence seemed to lend the victory and glory of the past to the present. Under her inspiring leadership, the '34 varsity attained the supremacy of former years. A winning score was marked beside twelve of their thirteen games.

THE GLEAM 1935

The Varsity of '35 had another successful season, meriting for itself the title, "Team Invincible." From its battles it has emerged with but one defeat. Perfect coordination of effort characterizes this "best varsity in the town," while the cool-headedness and competency of the able substitutes argue successful varsities for the future of West Catholic.

To the Varsity of '35 we say—"Hail to the Victors Valiant!"
